2003-04 Neubauer PEER Educator Award

The Neubauer PEER Educator Award was initiated in 2002 by the students in the PEER Educator group in order to give recognition to a faculty or staff member and a student who has manifested the mission statement of the PEER Educators; this mission is to promote well being, encourage healthy behavioral choices and heighten awareness of social health issues within the La Salle University Community.

This year's Faculty/Staff recipient is Anna Allen, Assistant Dean of Students. Anna Allen places the interests of students at a very high degree. She demonstrates passion in her work with students. She provides information to students with the goal of empowering them to make healthy decisions for themselves. She is not afraid to confront unhealthy student behaviors but does this always in good faith, without judgment and with compassion. As a result, she has earned the trust and respect of the students and the La Salle Community as a whole.

The Student recipient of this year's PEER Award is Denise Maher. Denise has been a feature editor of the Collegian. In this capacity, she has written several editorials and articles addressing 'social health issues'. Through her articles, she supported the change in La Salle University's smoking policy i.e. making all buildings smoke-free. She has written editorials critical of the mass media's treatment of female body image. She has tackled 'alcohol misuse' on campus and irresponsible sexual behavior. Recently, she wrote an article to raise awareness of cervical and uterine cancer. Denise has never been afraid to 'swim upstream' and confront unhealthy collegial and societal norms. Her articles demonstrate courage and insight and have challenged students to make 'healthy behavioral choices' which is the mission of the PEER Education group.

Congratulations, Anna Allen and Denise Maher!

2001-02 Neubauer PEER Educator Award Recipients: Professor Jaime Longo; Students: Kristal Lukacs & Larry Stevenson
2002-03 Neubauer PEER Educator Award Recipients: Staff Member – Michael Imperato; Student: Matt Myrick
